You just need to start

I recently read that there are two times in the calendar year that we are more open to change—and guess what? The New Year and specifically January just happens to be one of them.

So how do we start 2025 the right way?

Do we write down all our goals and ambitions for the year, set timelines and power through? Or do we linger in this wonderful energy we've created over the holiday and allow ourselves more space this year to enjoy the journey of 2025 and not just what we've set out to achieve?

I personally think there's room for both approaches and in this issue, we ask Clinical Herbalist and advocate for mindful living, Georgia Gibbs about her 'Your Pace, Your Way' approach to New Year resolutions and setting goals in general.

And because January and February can feel like we're back at work but not quite willing to leave the holidays behind us, we asked Actor and media personality Maria Thattil to put together her fave 'Back to Business' looks. Maria believes we should dress in a way that reflects who we are and who we want to become, and her effortlessly curated looks will inspire you to take a more active approach to power dressing this year.

We also shine a light on the importance of choosing the right Sports Bra, which was a timely reminder for me to add 'throw out old bras' to my New Years resolutions!!

And finally, whether you're planning on taking it easy or kicking off a new fitness campaign—don't forget we have 120+ new styles dropping this summer so there is sure to be something to suit your plans.

The New Year is the perfect time to start doing more of the things you love, and I hope this issue inspires you to start making plans YOUR WAY in 2025.

With Maria

Q: How do you balance so many different roles?

I don't know if I ever get the balance perfectly right. I'm a very type A organised person, so I have set goals for what year I want to achieve what thing. Now I'm in a place where I can focus on what I really want and that's acting. It also leaves room to do all the other things I love around advocacy and media.

Q: How do you manage a busy schedule?

Have a really good calendar or notes app. Every micro thought I have I'll note it down in the apps - I'm such a list girl! Another thing I will say as someone who's very passionate about health and wellbeing - pencil in rest. Rest isn't something that you earn or don't need, it is an essential.

Q: Proudest career moment?

It was when I won the Marie Claire Voice of Now Award last year. It was my proudest career moment because I was in a room with some of the most inspiring and impactful women I've ever met, and being recognised among them for my voice made me incredibly proud. Especially since I didn't think I had much of a voice growing up.

Q: Proudest moment that others might not know?

I do have social anxiety, and I was recently in a situation where it was triggered. I was very proud of myself for being able to internally get past it and not give in to the thoughts that made me question myself.

Q: A habit you swear by?

Lately, it's eating breakfast before I have my morning coffee. For cortisol levels and your energy, it's so important to fuel your body right from the start of the day. Another habit is hugging people... every day. We're human and we need it.

Q: How do you start the day to set yourself up for success?

It doesn't matter if I've only got 2 minutes or 15, I like to meditate in the morning. It's so important to give time to yourself before you're then able to give to others. And then I like to play 90s music - a bit of TLC's 'No Scrubs'. Habits like that just set the tone for your day. Plus, it's fun!

"I think it's so important to dress and show up for your life in a way that reflects who you are and who you want to be."

- @mariathattil

Q: Something you've learned about yourself throughout your journey?

I am a little bit tougher than I realised. My career is crazy, and I've had to be in some crazy and sometimes terrifying situations, for example being in a water tank with water pythons on national television or speaking to an audience of 2000 people live. But I learned that I'm tougher than I thought and that's really nice.
